Hoosier Cabinets Book
By Philip D. Kennedy
This book is about “Hoosier Cabinets,” the unique kitchen cabinets found in so many American homes from the turn of the century to the early 1930s. The book provides detailed information about Hoosier, Sellers, Napanee, Boone and McDougall kitchen cabinets and the history of the companies that made them.

The book contains many rare old magazine advertisements for kitchen cabinets that will prove invaluable when attempting to identify or date old cabinets. They also show many of the accessories and other features associated with a particular cabinet. The final section of the book includes many helpful tips and techniques used to restore old cabinets. 168 Pages, 8-1/2" X 11" Softbound.

The End of an Era

The sifter bowls shown on this page represent the end of an era that lasted more than 100 years. In 1900 McCormick & Sons Hardware in Albany, Indiana began making flour bins for The Hoosier Manufacturing Co. By 1910 Hoosier had become so large that they began making their own flour bins. However, McCormick continued make flour bins for other cabinet manufacturers.

In the fall of 2013 we decided to discontinue the manufacturing of flour bins due to the declining condition of the dies and machines (most were over 90 years old). We assembled our last flour bins and sifter bowls in the late spring of 2014. Those flour bins are all gone. We still have some sifter bowls and sifter bowl components. When the current stock of these items has been sold there will be no more.
